

FoodChain Europe provides a Due Diligence Health Check which has proven to be a popular first step to see if all is well. The Due Diligence Health Check is an examination of the systems you have in place to establish whether the basic principles of Due Diligence are covered.

Due Diligence Health Check

Are your systems and procedures adequate?
Are you confident you have covered all the elements you need to?

Most food legislation contains the due diligence defence. This protects a business that has taken all appropriate precautions to avoid prosecution yet still manage to get it wrong.

The Due Diligence Health Check takes the form of an on-site review with your Directors and senior managers of your business. Typically this can be completed in one day. At the end of the day the assessor will discuss the findings with you. You will also receive a brief report detailing the principles of due diligence with an overview of how well the business meets each of the requirements.
